

FIVE ANNOUNCE CANDIDACY FOR SCHOOL OFFICES

Trustees For New Amador High School District to be Chosen Saturday.

Only five candidates have announced themselves as seeking election to the board of trustees of the Amador Valley joint union high school district. The election is to take place next Saturday and five trustees are to be chosen. J. V. Ferreira is candidate for the one-year term; H. P. Mohr and George Kolb for the two-year term; and Charles H. Graham and J. Hal Cope for the three-year term.

The Amador Valley joint union high school district consists of Pleasanton and Murrain school districts in Alameda county and Antone school district, which lies partly in Alameda and partly in Contra Costa counties. It is the only joint union high school district in Alameda county, since Antone is the only joint grammar school district in the county. The new high school district will be under supervision of David Martin, superintendent of Alameda county schools, since the major portion of it is in Alameda county.

FIRST TASK

Certificates of election will be issued to the successful candidates by Martin on May 2 and ten days later the board of trustees will organize and elect a president and secretary. The selection of teachers for the new joint union high school will be one of the first tasks of the trustees after organization.

The site for the new high school will require immediate attention. For a temporary location an effort is being made to secure the use of the old Count Valentin mansion on the Rancho del Valle. If the building is made available the joint union high school will open its sessions in September, at the beginning of the regular school year.

LONG FEUD ENDED

The formation of the Amador Valley joint union high school district ended a long feud between Pleasanton and Livermore over the question of a union high school. Pleasanton had been sending pupils to Livermore union high school but had no voice in the affairs of the school, since the district did not belong to the Livermore high school district. The people of Pleasanton wanted a high school of their own but found much opposition outside their district by people who wanted to unite with Livermore. The present joint union high school district was finally formed at an election held last spring, but while it settled that quarrel between Livermore and Pleasanton a new difference is expected to arise over the proposal to join Sunol school district, which has an assessed valuation of nearly $3,000,000, to either of the two high school districts.

300 Girls Will Take Part in Dancing Numbers of the Spectacle "Aladdin"

Set against a background of Oriental splendor, the seventh annual Ad Masque, unique and colorful event sponsored by the Oakland Advertising Club, will be presented in the Oakland Municipal Auditorium the night of May 20. Rehearsals for the drama, "Aladdin," which will feature the early part of the Ad Masque, are well under way.

The dancing numbers in which more than 300 girls participate are being rehearsed under the direction of Miss Marie Allen, teacher of dancing, originator of the annual Duck Pageant, and a teacher in the Lakeview school, who is recognized for her originality in designing costumes and setting dances to music. Miss Allen has designed more than 200 of the costumes to be worn in "Aladdin."

The drama spectacle was written and is being produced under the direction of George Cummings who has followed the original story as it appears in the Arabian Nights Tales.

LEADING PART.

In the role of Aladdin will be Miss Lillian Ekins, graceful figure, boyish of face and whose dancing and histrionic ability have won wide approval. Another central figure will be that of the Slave Girl who dances for the Emperor.

Miss Berdette Spencer, an Oakland girl.

Then there will be Joseph Fredricks, University of California student, a nationally known dancer who has appeared with Pavlova and St. Denis and who has written two ballets for Pavlova. Fredricks appears as the Genii of the magical lamp. He has designed the costumes and originated the dance of the genii which promises to be a sensation.

W. N. Jenkins has the part of the bazaar keeper outside the Emperor's palace. Fred Blanchard will appear as the Emperor, while the role of his daughter, The Princess, will be assumed by a movie star of note.

SUB-PRINCIPALS.

A few of the sub-principals in "Aladdin" are: Ladies-in-waiting to the Princess—Dorothy Van Loan, Helen Parker, Dorothea Pottinger, Alma Halcrow, Virginia Sevey, Page Clement, Mabelle Hunter; Princess's attendants—Mary Shallue, Juanita Zorba, Dolores Flashman, Phillis O'Brien, Alice Barnickell, Ruth Woerner, Ruth Runner, Mildred Drew; Jewels—Vesta Ayres, Bonnie Billel, Lolita Brown, Grace Westphall, Alma Bardeleben, Margaret Fulton, Marian Watson, Ruth De Witt; Pingo girls—Evelyn Gluck, Carolyn Green, Dorothea Hall, Edilla Martland, Marian Bailey, Dorothy Wagner, Eva Golden, Bonita Heimond, Bess Pottinger, Elinor Mayson, Marie Heafey, Ruth McDonald.

The second big feature will be the revival of the Parade of the Ads which, this year, will emphasize Truth in Advertising, a movement that is national in scope. It is expected that 100 firms will be represented in the parade. Each stunt will have its Truth girl.

The Ad Masque will close with a grand ball in which the participants and spectators will join to the syncopated music of two bands, situated in different parts of the arena.

OPEN AIR PLAY TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

The first performance in the new Brookdale garden open-air theater in Leona Heights is to be given tonight, when the Jester Workshop Players of Fremont High school will present "Hens to Mend," under the direction of Miss Doris McEntyre.

A fifty-piece band will provide music for the opening performance, which will be preceded by an address given by Superintendent of Schools Fred M. Hunter.

The theater, which is being constructed by volunteer workers, is modeled after the Bohemian Grove theater. It was dedicated last week by Mayor Ron Campbell and members of the Park Board.

A committee, which has promoted the project under the supervision of the Oakland Park Board, includes Earl S. Bingham, chairman, and Homer Brink, George Grile, Mrs. V. K. Grimwood and Charles Trevatt. The theater is sponsored by the Leona Heights club.

ALLEGED GRAFT IN S. F. MAY BRING POLICE SHAKE-UP

Charges of Bribery of Police By Bootleggers to Be Probed.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—A shake-up in the police department affecting all of the stations and resulting in the transfer of great numbers of patrolmen, sergeants and corporals will probably follow news of graft in connection with wholesale bootlegging throughout the city.

Chief of Police Daniel O'Brien admitted today that some higher officers were concerned in the graft and that others besides patrolmen will find themselves dismissed from the department if the accusations against them can be proved. Whether any officers above sergeants are concerned could not be learned, but it is intimated that one captain is being investigated.

Complaints regarding graft have come even from the bootleggers themselves, said Chief O'Brien today. "I have been told that certain officers made operatives of blind pigs contribute more than they received. Finally they were led to complain. I have been told that certain higher officers are involved, and my men are still investigating. I am sorry that anything has been said publicly so soon as I had hoped to catch several men whose names I have before they learned that the investigation was on foot. For the benefit of the rank and file of honest policemen the crooks must be weeded out of the department."

Two members of the San Francisco police force, James M. Rawlins and Arthur M. Christiansen, were charged yesterday with conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law, following a series of raids led by Prohibition Director Samuel F. Rutter and Police Captain Charles Goff.

Policeman Christiansen was suspended by Chief O'Brien, when charges were preferred by a federal agent to the effect that he had given Christiansen "protection money."

Marked money is alleged to have been found on the person of Policeman Rawlins, who was arrested. According to Chief O'Brien, Rawlins declared that he had accepted the money for the protection of a blind pig at a Sixth street, conducted by a former policeman, Tom Joyce.

OFFICERS ATTACKED.

The arrest of Joyce was effected outside his establishment and led to a melee, in which Joyce attacked the officers with a knife, but was knocked down by a night stick wielded by police officer. Joyce was taken into custody. Police Captain Goff had seen him pass a $20 bill to Policeman Rawlins.

Four bartenders were also arrested at Joyce's establishment. Two barrels of whisky and a large assortment of liquors were seized.

According to prohibition officers, the price of drinks was exceedingly high. One officer said that if a customer complained he was thrown out of the place, and that if he carried his grievance to a policeman Rawlins he was told to leave the neighborhood and threatened that he would be jailed for vagrancy.

STUDENT POET TO FACE TRIAL FOR ARDENT WOOLING

Israeliam Says He Is Averse to Publicity He Has Received.

BERKELEY, April 24.—"This is entirely a personal matter; I don't see why it has to be aired in public," complained Ardashak Israeliam, Armenian university graduate, poet and philosopher, when he appeared before Judge Robert Edgar this morning to answer a complaint filed against him by Mrs. Lillian Barton, 28-year-old divorcee.

Mrs. Barton charged that Israeliam used cave-man tactics when he found that her love for him was waning after he is declared to have forgotten their wedding day. She swore to a warrant charging him with disturbing her peace.

In court this morning Israeliam, who is 29 years old and a graduate of last year's class at the university, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of the young woman.

Asked by the judge whether he wanted a court or jury trial he chose the former, but after court had adjourned he changed his mind and asked for jury but his original choice stood. The case was set for trial on Wednesday. Israeliam objected.

"I want to tell my story now," he demanded. As there were no other witnesses present the judge insisted that the case go over.

The arrest of Israeliam followed conferences between the police and officers of the Berkeley Welfare Society before whom Mrs. Barton laid her case when she says the Armenian poet's devotion became so pronounced at her place of employment that she was afraid she would lose her position.

Miss Coell Mosbacher, agent of the society, will be called to the stand Wednesday to tell of an alleged promise made by Israeliam to keep away from the young woman after the latter had spurned his attempts at reconciliation.

Mrs. Barton resides at 1322 Blake street while Israeliam's address is 1501 Grant street. Israeliam is out on $50 bail.

Collins Boy to be Placed in School

Superior Judge Dudley Kinsell, called upon to decide who shall have the custody of Romualdo D. Collins Jr., today indicated he will take example of King Solomon and "divide" the child—by ordering him placed in a private school or given into the custody of a family not related to either parent.

There Romualdo D. Collins Sr., the father, and Mrs. Catherine G. Haddell, the boy's mother, may each see him as often and whenever they please.

Judge Kinsell requested O. D. Hamlin Jr., attorney for Collins, and William Hayes, attorney for Mrs. Haddell, to meet and agree on such a school, reserving his decision on Collins' petition until Tuesday.

British Peer and U. S. Wife

LORD AND LADY ASTOR on board the S. S. Olympic, just before the ship docked in New York. After an absence of eight years, Viscountess Astor visits America again. When she went to England it was as the American wife of a British peer, but she returns crowned by the distinction of having won the first seat held by a woman in Parliament. Lady Nancy, as she is more familiarly known, comes as the guest of the National League of Women Voters and will speak at their Pan-American conference and third annual convention, to be held from April 20 to 28 in Baltimore. A committee of women met the famous woman at the pier.—Copyright by Underwood & Underwood, New York.

LADY ASTOR GETS SOCIETY GREETING

BALTIMORE, April 24.—Part of Baltimore society and all of the foreign delegates to the Pan-American conference of women met Lady Astor yesterday at a reception given by Mrs. John W. Garrett, at whose fine suburban home the first woman member of the house of commons is a guest.

Governor Ritchie of Maryland had a chat with Lady Astor during the reception.

For every one the lively viscountess had a bright greeting or a witty remark, and with many she talked over the happy times when she was a debutante beauty of Virginia. All came away smiling.

Yesterday morning Lady Astor rested and worked on one of the speeches she is to deliver.

"Which one?" she was asked. "I don't know which one," she replied.

Today she attended some of the committee meetings preliminary to the opening tomorrow of the convention of the National League of Women Voters.

At the reception Lady Astor wore a lavender crepe de chine dress, a necklace of pearls and a black picture hat slanting at a sharp angle over her right eye.

The Garretts entertained a number of guests for a house party during the visit of Lord and Lady Astor and Dame Littleton, who accompanied her from England.

Bandit Robs Autoist Who Gave Him Ride

A lone bandit robber E. W. Snider of 3538 Telegraph avenue while he was giving the stranger a ride home in his automobile. The bandit stopped him at Twelfth and Filbert streets and asked him for a ride last evening. Snider stopped his automobile and picked him up.

After they had traveled several blocks the stranger asked Snider if he wanted a drink. He put his hand to his hip pocket, but instead of taking out a bottle, he hit Snider in the face with his fist. The bandit then choked Snider with his right hand while he went through his pockets and took $15. He then jumped off the machine and made his escape. Snider was treated at the Emergency hospital for a bruised face.

Ben de Georn of 527 Chestnut street was held up Saturday while he was walking in the drive on his home. He told the police that two men jumped on him and beat him. They took his wallet, containing $100.

AUTO TOURISTS EQUIP CAR WITH RADIO APPARATUS

Salt Lake Travelers Listen to Music and News While On the Way.

MONTEREY, April 24.—Here's the very last word in automobile luxury.

Mr. and Mrs. David Keith from Salt Lake City people sojourned in the top of a touring car. The Keiths have been motoring through California for some weeks and reached Monterey a few days ago, stopping at Del Monte.

During a ride along the coast here they listened to music and the news of the day through the medium of the radio. The clearness with which everything could be heard was extraordinary, considering the thunder of the waves at certain points on the drive. This did not seem to interfere in the least, and the service worked perfectly.

The Keiths intend their apparatus with the idea of breaking the monotony of the motor trip through the desert in returning to Salt Lake. They report that they have been constantly in radio touch with Salt Lake, even hearing from as far north as Seattle.

Judge Harris' Ruling Clears Wedding Tangle

By the stroke of his pen today Superior Judge T. W. Harris legalized six marriages performed in 1929 by Rev. Lawrence Murphy and unsanctioned one of the oldest legal unions in Alameda county history.

Judge Harris, after a brief hearing, granted the petition of Father Murphy to have the marriages officially recorded as of the date on which they were performed, setting at rest the uneasiness of half a dozen married couples who have been living happily together in blissful ignorance that they were not properly married in the eyes of the law.

During the latter part of 1929, Father Murphy performed the marriage ceremony for Julio Merceles and Maria Cegolla. Walter Jurgens and Julia T. Fealey, William F. C. Colburn and Rose Ruppert, Raymond Johnson and Jessie Drury, Walter A. Silsman and Philomena Larkin and Louise M. Freitas and Marcela A. Sarg.

He was in poor health at the time and since it would necessitate his making a trip to the court house to record the marriages, he filed the certificates away in his desk intending to record them when he regained his health. Then he forgot all about them until about two weeks ago when he came across the papers while cleaning out his desk.

The law demands all marriages be recorded within a year after the ceremony and more than a year had elapsed, so it was necessary to secure a court order to have the six marriages legally recorded.

Mrs. D'Agostini To Know Verdict Soon

He will be followed, probably today, by Henry Skinner, attorney for the defense. District Attorney Ezra DeCoto will make the closing argument.

Senator Edwin Otis, Carl Strom, president of the Alameda Chamber of Commerce; C. W. Hammond, postmaster of Alameda, and Superior Judge A. F. St. Sure were placed on the witness stand in turn by the defense and each testified to the good reputation borne by Mrs. D'Agostini prior to the shooting of Postel in Alameda last fall.

He must serve a two-year term for conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act, his conviction having been upheld by the supreme court of the United States.

"Uncle Sam has willed that I must pay the penalty," Brolaski said. "There is no use trying to fight it off. I took the last step possible, made the last legal move and love."

Wednesday; Essay Contest Near Close.

A call by Chairman Joseph J. Rosborough for a full attendance of the committee of 100 at the luncheon on Wednesday, and announcement of William Harold Oliver, chairman of Industries Day, that the essay contest will close on Wednesday, marked the development today of the plans for Boys' Week, to be staged here by the Oakland Rotary Club May 1 to 7.

Oliver issued an appeal to all boys in the schools to enter the essay contest, the title of which is "The Honor of Earning One's Living and Its Effect on Civilization." ## EAST BAY WATER COMPANY TO KEEP WATERSHED LAND

President Edgerton Issues
Statement On Rail Board's Ruling

Edwin O. Edgerton, president of the East Bay Water company, issued a statement today, relative to the status of the proposed $2,500,000 improvement program for East Bay cities, and watershed lands, following the rate decision of the Railroad Commission last Saturday.

The commission denied the application of the company for an increase of rates and the application of the cities for a reduction in rate, and held that the rates should remain unchanged.

The commission also declined to provide in rates for the $2,500,000 improvement program, but suggested that this matter be made the subject of negotiation between the water company and the cities.

Edgerton expresses the hope that the negotiations between the cities and the company "will put this company in a position to give complete and adequate service for all purposes, including a system sufficient to permit cities to give adequate fire protection."

TO RETAIN LANDS.
The company will retain its watershed lands despite the ruling of the commission, according to Edgerton.

"It has been recognized for some time that in certain districts there is needed additional distribution system to enable the cities to provide adequate fire protection."

"The cities have demanded the installation of additional pipe system and the company prepared and submitted to the cities and the Railroad Commission, in the rate proceeding just completed, a comprehensive plan involving an estimated cost of approximately $2,500,000.

"The Railroad Commission, in its decision rendered Saturday, does not provide in rates for this expenditure, but suggests that the terms upon which such proposed improvements be made be the subject of negotiations between cities and the company."

"The East Bay Water company will continue to protect the health of the public by the retention of watershed lands, and will continue to protect the health of the public by the retention of watershed lands, and will continue to protect the health of the public by the retention of watershed lands."

PROTECTION TO HEALTH.
"All of the investigations of this company and its long experience, coupled with the best advice of sanitary engineers, are convincing that a substantial protection to the public is afforded by a complete control of watershed lands."

"Even though the East Bay Water company has installed a most complete, up-to-date and effective filter plant at San Pablo, and the public health is protected by preventing pollution and contamination of its water supply, through the ownership and control of these watershed lands."

"The health of the consumer is a paramount importance and that no risks should be taken, even though the company now has the opportunity to gain a substantial financial advantage by disposing of some of its lands."

BAD ENGLISH IS NO BAR TO FAME, HISTORY SHOWS

Many Men Rose to Big Positions Who Made "Bad Breaks," Is Claim.

By CHARLES MILLER, Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 24.—A big steel contractor, famous in his own field, but not much heralded with "learnin'," has started a new discussion of an old topic.

"Did you build this theater in a haphazard manner?" asked the district attorney in questioning James Kavanaugh, of Pluckham & Kavanaugh, steel contractors, in the hearing over the collapse of the American theater, in Brooklyn, when seven persons were killed.

"Yes," answered Kavanaugh. "I later developed that Kavanaugh thought 'haphazard' meant 'all right'."

Now, then, how do men with so little education rise to eminence? The question, with variations, is being widely discussed.

"What makes the real or best foundation for success in life?" Every man who ever rose to fame and old age has given a different receipt.

Did men who rise to great heights in spite of a handicap of ignorance stand a greater chance to fall from those heights than men of intellect? Would men who become great without education become greater with the advantage of college training?

Is higher education an actual handicap to some persons? Big men in all walks of life seem to spring almost equally from the learned and the unlearned classes.

Big men with brains go through hard work, from their principles, the same as men of meager education. Men profoundly ignorant of common forms of grammatical usage live in honor and die revered, and yet memory of them often brings you back only to some quaint quotation or maxim.

"Uncle Jerry" Rusk, first American Secretary of Agriculture, when acknowledging the gratitude of the people of Wisconsin whom he served well and long, including the governorship, said:

"I only seen my duty and went and done it." It would not do to tell an old-time banker, whose memory goes that far back, that there was anything the matter with the government.

The varying degrees of popularity of Prof. Woodrow Wilson, who traveled from the college rostrum to the Presidency and back to a largely forgotten private citizenship, gives another view of the same large discussion.

The greatest automobile maker in the country has aspired to a Senate seat, but makes no claim to a wide knowledge of history or unusual acquaintance with grammars or dictionaries.

One of our martyred Presidents started on their upward careers without the "handicap" of university training.

From the "Great Emancipator" rose from rail splitter and a clerkship in a grocery and grog shop, through hard work, to great attainments that never included him among the "intellectuals." And yet he wrote the Gettysburg speech, perfect in its grammatical form, and destined to thunder on down the ages.

From "Cuddles" to "President" is the legendary title of James A. Garfield's biography.

A Western Governor whose fame lives mostly on his overworked byword, which was "Yeezus," nevertheless came near going abroad to one of our most important diplomatic posts.

Uncle Joe Cannon never possessed great learning. But he now sings his congressional swan song after more than a half century of service, since it in the homely language of the common peasant. He surely may be conceded to have been a "success."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull tired feeling—sick headache—a torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 50c.—Advertisement.

VIRGINIA MEETS A CELEBRITY "I am learning to be an actress," I exclaimed to myself triumphantly when I found that instead of smiling at Herbert after he had given me that wonderful secret of man's egoism, I looked up into his face as though I were drinking in every word of his wisdom.

I knew, though, that it would be impossible for me to keep up the strain of my pose very long and I said: "Herb, tell me something about the Wide-World Film Co. I start working for them tomorrow and I am worried because neither you nor Tommy Warner will be there. I shall be on my own. Tell me, first, how to get out there?"

"Simple enough. Are you going to your new apartment tomorrow?" "Yes, tomorrow evening, I think."

"Well, you get off the street car that passes your apartment at Hollywood boulevard and Calumet. There you will find a lot of automobiles with signs on them, 'Bus to Wide-World City.' Could anything be simpler?"

I could not help seeing the many interested glances at our table, and although Herbert was a newly married man, very much in love with his wife, yet I think he rather enjoyed the sensation of having one last fling at the gossip sharks.

During our dinner Herbert told me about my new employers, their stars, standing, etc. A number of them came over to our table. I never knew I had so many friends, grinned Herb.

He introduced me to only one of them whom he told me afterwards, the director for Theodore Stratton's pictures. Two or three times I looked up and found Mr. Stratton looking at me.

"You are making a hit with the big man," observed Herb and then I told of meeting Theodore Stratton on my way out.

"He is trying to place you," said Herb. "If you get a job out at his studio don't tell him. Place his dignity. It is better. His disavowal of your acquaintanceship will hit him all the harder."

I knew this was good advice and thanked Herb for it. Mr. Herbert Richardson, Mr. Herbert Richardson, Mr. Herbert Richardson, I thought. At the telephone, please, answered the boy as Herb raised his hand.

"It's Rita," said Herb with a worried look. "Excuse me, Virginia." He left me almost on the run. Hardly had Herb passed through the dining room door before a man at the next table came toward me, bowing and smiling.

I looked at him in surprise. With a smirk the intruder said: "I see you don't remember me, Miss Winston. I met you the other evening at the Grove. My name is Brown."

I had no recollection of ever seeing the intruder, but there was a possibility that I had met him. My education was coming fast. The situation had possibilities.

U. S. Bather Shocks Peru; Their Outfits Long as Nightgown

Bathers of Callao, Peru, were shocked by the one-piece American bathing suit worn by Miss Kay Miller, graduate of the University High school of this city. Miss Miller is the daughter of Captain J. E. Miller of the steamer Colusa, which arrived here yesterday from South America.

She said that the bathing suit in vogue at the South American resort is more like a nightgown than a bathing suit.

Miss Miller attracted so much attention at the beach that she was asked if she would "mind" wearing just a little more covering.

"I was really astonished at the attitude of the beach police," Miss Miller declared. "They were really so polite that one could not take offense at what they said. The bathing suit I wore was just the regulation beach suit, seen every day in California and in the East during the bathing season."

Alien Laws Evaded By Foreign Sailors

GALVESTON, Texas, April 22.—The Immigration laws of the United States are being evaded by alien sailors, according to local customs officials. The LaFollette act is the loop-hole.

This measure allows alien sailors shore leave while waiting for their vessel to reshipe, and should they miss their boat, the law allows 60 days to sign upon another vessel or arrange passage to the native country, or qualify under the immigration law. Before passage of the LaFollette measure, alien sailors were not allowed to leave their vessels in American ports.

Employment Relations Association Launched For All Pacific Coast.

To improve relations between labor and capital on the Pacific coast, the Employment Relations Association of the Pacific Coast has been formed, it is announced.

The association declares that it will constitute a common meeting place and clearing house for employers and employees, and that it will draw up a program for the gathering of data on business problems, for education through the press and through public meetings, and for a department of research to investigate the problems of employer and employee.

Writing Williams, noted authority on industrial relations, will arrive in San Francisco next month to assist in launching the movement.

The board of directors consists of: Fred Dohrmann Jr., president of the San Francisco board of education; Frederick J. Koster, former president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce; Walter M. Mathewson, state commissioner of labor; Mortimer Fleischacker, regional director of unemployment for the president of the United States; Walter B. Bakewell, vice-president of the Mercantile Trust Co.; George S. Hollis, president of the Central Labor Council of San Francisco; Wilford E. Talbert, director of the bureau of management research; Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford university; Most Reverend Edward J. Hanna, archbishop of the diocese of San Francisco; Joseph King, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Oakland; and Harrison S. Robinson, attorney for the ship building interests of the Pacific coast.

Athens Athletic Club Plans Elaborate Features for Members' Wives, Friends

There'll be no wondering by women as to what the men are doing at the new Athens Athletic Club. No indeed, for the wives and girl friends of the members will be perfectly welcome themselves. Here's LYNNE STANLEY, manager, showing GLADYS HEMMING, DOROTHY ADAMS and STELLA PUGH physical culture stunts that will feature the club's feminist department.

FIREMEN'S TURKEY TROT.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 24.—Called out by a general alarm, the fire department responded and discovered that the fire consisted of a turkey which had caught fire in a gas oven while being roasted.

Special Swimming Tanks, Rooms for Teas and Bridge, Use of Golf Links Arranged by Officers

The Athens Athletic club is not going to be exclusively for men. Provision will be made for the wives and other feminine friends of the members.

This question was brought to an issue today when Gladys Hemming, Dorothy Adams and Stella Pugh visited the office of Lynne Stanley, the secretary-manager, seeking information as to exactly what the club planned for the wives, friends and relatives of the members.

Stanley explained that among the features planned for the women were physical culture classes, special swimming tanks, rooms for tea and bridge, and the use of the golf links for which the club is now negotiating.

Reports made yesterday indicate that the goal of 3000 members for the club will be reached by May 11. The combined efforts of the Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, One Hundred Per Cent and other luncheon clubs are back of the movement to fill up the membership and get the actual construction of the club building under way this summer.

Comparisons with the conditions under which the Olympic club of San Francisco and the Los Angeles Athletic club were started, are all in favor of the Athens club. It is stated that the local organization is in a better position today with reference to actual finances in the bank and number of members on its roll than either of the clubs mentioned, at the time they got under way.

Booze Raiders Nab Eight in Richmond

Manuel Freitas, Manuel Fernandez and Manuel Alves, charged with having liquor in their possession at 64 Railroad avenue, had their cases continued for a day and George Follich of the Eagle restaurant at 57 Washington avenue, was fined $150 for having illicit liquors.

House Owner: I had this paint put on last year and look at it now.

Painter: It doesn't take long for the weather to show up poor paint.

House Owner: But how was I to know it was poor paint? I'm no paint expert.

Painter: It doesn't take a paint expert to get reliable paint these days—just ordinary intelligence. For instance, you ought to know that there is a Company of paint experts that have been making house paint for nearly fifty years; making it from accurate formulas, mixing and grinding it with powerful machinery; manufacturing every important ingredient; putting in just what all these years of experience have taught them is the best. That Company is the Sherwin-Williams Company and the paint is known to us painters as SWP. Wouldn't you be safe in trusting such a paint?

The painter is right, as we can prove by scores of house owners in this town. If you want your house to stay painted get SWP from us.

PARADE FLOATS SHOW PROGRESS OF FRUITVALE

Dimond Improvement Club
in Celebration Over Paving Completion.

Celebration of the completion of the paving of Fruitvale avenue featured a parade yesterday held under the auspices of the Dimond Improvement club and participated in by city and county officials and fraternal and civic organizations.

Floors depicting the progress of the community were arranged by the members of the various civic organizations participating in the parade, a feature of which was the picturesque section provided by the Benevolent Order of Clansmen.

Following the parade, the crowds adjourned to the site of the new club house, where the flag was formally raised. The ceremony was participated in by Mayor John L. Davis and Commissioners Frank Colbourn, Albert E. Carter and W. H. Edwards, State Senators Frank Carr and A. P. Anderson, and many other political dignitaries.

The affair was one of the most pretentious ever participated in by the Dimond club, and was under the direction of Ernest J. Engler, president of the organization.

NAVAL ARCHITECT BURIED IN S. F.

Funeral services for James Dickie, former superintendent of the Union Iron Works and well known as a naval architect, were held this afternoon from a private chapel at Divisadero and Post streets, San Francisco. Dickie died at his home in this city on Saturday. Large numbers of his former associates paid their last tribute to the veteran San Francisco waterfront today.

Dickie was an outstanding figure in the maritime history of the coast. Born in Scotland, he came to this country when a young boy. For more than half a century he has resided about the bay. He was 75 years old.

Dickie designed the ferry boats in use on the Key Route system and many ocean craft. He was the designer of naval architects on the coast.

Dickie was a member of the Institution of Naval Architects of London and the Northeast Coast Institution of Engineers and Shipbuilders, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and the Society of Naval Architects of New York.

NOTED FILMS TO AID MILLS DRIVE

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," featuring Marguerite Clark as Lovey Mary, and the "Wizard of Oz" have been recruited for the series of benefits for Mills College Alumnae Association, which has granted the right to use the two films on next Saturday. The Municipal Opera House has been engaged for the day, and three shows scheduled, as follows: 10 a. m., 2 p. m., 7:45 p. m.

College leaders are engaged in a campaign to raise $2,000.00 as an endowment for the college, the only woman's institution of its kind in the west. The Rockefeller Foundation has intimated that substantial assistance will be forthcoming upon fulfillment of certain conditions. The Mills women are making an active drive to increase the local gifts to the proportion which will guarantee the foundation contribution of $350,000 to complete each $1,000,000.

Mrs. Don Smith and Mrs. Thomas Mitchell Potter have launched the business venture and are arranging the details of the Sunday benefit on behalf of their alumnae sisters. The Marguerite Clark film has been donated by its producers to the college women.

LOEW'S STATE

"A Virgin Paradise," the stupendous William Fox special, which made a sensation in New York, has made a profound impression in this city, where it began a run of one week at Loew's State theater yesterday. It is a story of the jungle and of civilized hypocrisy. The action shifts from a palatial country place on the South Seas, where a volcano destroys the entire population with the exception of the infant heiress to a remote island in the Pacific. The vaudeville for the week is of the superior quality. Tom McKay's review delights the senses of those who love Scotch music. Deane Bros. are aerial comedians, who nevertheless perform amazing feats. Babette La Tour appears in a riot of fun, music and originality. Joseph and Turner have a clever skit in "A Day at the Races." Billy Barrington is a comedian with a new variety of humor.

Eva Tanguay, the highest paid star on the vaudeville stage, is the guest attraction at Loew's State theater next Sunday. She will bring to Oakland her famous "Song and Gown Revue."

NEW CHIMES

Delightful in every respect, Cecil B. DeMille's latest Paramount picture production, "Fools Paradise," was presented with unqualified success at the New Chimes theater yesterday.

DeMille's thorough artistry, as producer is seen in every "shot" of this captivating romance. The story, suggested by Leonard Merrick's "The Laurels and the Lads," was adapted with taste and skill by Eulalia Marie Dix and Sate Cowan. The theme is one of intense heart appeal and the various scenes which take place in France, Mexico and thence to Siam, with their kaleidoscopic views, are beautiful in the extreme.

The leading roles are excellently portrayed by Dorothy Dalton, Mildred Harris, Conrad Nagel, Theodore Nagel, Theodore Kosloff, John Davidson and Julia Faye.

AUDITORIUM

Chauncey Olcott will appear at the Oakland Auditorium theater for a limited engagement, beginning Monday evening, May 1, in his latest success, called "Ragged Robin," described as a charming little play of delicate Irish folk-lore and a beautifully portrayed scene of life in the Emerald Isle.

It is said of "Ragged Robin" that it brings to the stage many diverting characters and that Olcott, in the title role, alters the mental attitude of many very human persons embittered by chronic grouches and despondency with sunny nature and thoroughly optimistic epigrams.

The scenes of the play are laid in Ireland and visualize the familiar characters and events incident to the country. The famous star will sing some of his latest songs.

IDORA

Enter now "The Maid of Mystery" at Idora Park. "The Maid of Mystery" wears a mask and will appear on the Oakland streets and in Oakland stores during the week. Then on next Sunday she appears at Idora in a bathing suit, still wearing her mask. But at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon she will take off the mask.

"The Maid of Mystery" is a beauty, too, and has a winning smile, it is said.

Meanwhile roller skating, swimming, dancing and the various fun-makers at Idora are proving very popular with the throngs afternoons and evenings.

THEATER

ORPHEUM

James J. Corbett, with Billy B. Van, was given a warm welcome home at the Oakland Orpheum yesterday afternoon, when their newest skit, "The Eighteenth Amendment," was presented. In addition to these two celebrities the new bill boasts a handsome and potent full-blooded dancer and the right to use the two films on next Saturday. The Municipal Opera House has been engaged for the day, and three shows scheduled, as follows: 10 a. m., 2 p. m., 7:45 p. m.

College leaders are engaged in a campaign to raise $2,000.00 as an endowment for the college, the only woman's institution of its kind in the west. The Rockefeller Foundation has intimated that substantial assistance will be forthcoming upon fulfillment of certain conditions. The Mills women are making an active drive to increase the local gifts to the proportion which will guarantee the foundation contribution of $350,000 to complete each $1,000,000.

AMERICAN

A woman plunging from the confines of a convent into the blaring cabaret world to impersonate and assume the consequences of a twin sister supposed to have committed suicide, is the theme of "The Girl Who Came Back," now being shown at the American theater.

The story is of two sisters, identical in appearance but separated in character. One, a woman of noble character, seeks the solace of a convent. The other, petty and selfish, becomes a dancing celebrity.

The selfish sister immediately rushes to the convent, when she believes she has killed a man, and preaches to the nuns. She is the world in her place. Gripping circumstances prevail, forming the basis for a highly interesting story. Miss Young, assuming the roles of both sisters, is given excellent support.

The same bill is "Taking Chances," a picture replete with thrills, offered by the new screen sensation, Richard Talmadge.

PANTAGES

Ernest endeavor and hard work earned dividends at Pantages theater yesterday when a quintet of distinguished harmonizers from the south and under the name of C. W. Johnson and Company, sang their way into favor and played well on several kinds of instruments.

A good number was Foley and O'Neil, a pair who proved they know how to make people enjoy themselves. They may be accredited with originality in every phase of their number.

The Ambler Brothers are three daring equilibristas who amuse things in the air on heavy apparatus and take chances with life and limb. A thorough master of the piano is Walter Hastings, who employs his baritone vocal abilities to assist him in his work. Julia Edwards sings but also sings. Here is a trapeze number with a musical setting.

Everyone seemed to like the big picture with Alice Calhoun leading. It is entitled "The Rainbow."

Manager Harry Cornell announces that Ben Turpin, the funny man of the Mack-Sennett pictures, will soon be at Pantages in person.

NEW BROADWAY

Shifting its scenes from conventional places to the decks of a pirate ship, mingling its romance with thrills and swift moving action, "Moran of the Lady Letty," at the Broadway theater for the last time today has the appeal of dramatic interest seldom offered in screen productions.

Buddy Valentino and Dorothy Dalton are the admirable stars. They were never seen to better advantage.

Other attractions on the same program give the Broadway bill an alluring flavor.

Tomorrow, Mark Twain's greatest comedy, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," will begin a two-day run.

FULTON

In all of the rogues gallery of the drama there has been no figure more benign than that of the safe-blowing hero of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," revived last night at the Fulton theater by Harland Tucker. A handsome and potent full-blooded dancer and the right to use the two films on next Saturday. The Municipal Opera House has been engaged for the day, and three shows scheduled, as follows: 10 a. m., 2 p. m., 7:45 p. m.

College leaders are engaged in a campaign to raise $2,000.00 as an endowment for the college, the only woman's institution of its kind in the west. The Rockefeller Foundation has intimated that substantial assistance will be forthcoming upon fulfillment of certain conditions. The Mills women are making an active drive to increase the local gifts to the proportion which will guarantee the foundation contribution of $350,000 to complete each $1,000,000.

T. & D.

Booth Tarkington, himself, is said to have chosen Wesley Frankland to portray the role of Penrod in his "Penrod" stories, and it was apparent at the Oakland T. & D. theater yesterday, that Barry is just what everyone would think Penrod ought to be. It was filmed just as Tarkington wrote it, furnishing a vivid reminder of boyhood days, with its opening taken in the headquarters of the American Protective Association.

Penrod is seen going to a theater to see a show that is a preachment against the curse of drink. It is being shown to such an extent that when an aunt and cousin come to visit the Schofield, Penrod convinces the idea that they have been driven away from home by the alcoholic weaknesses of his aunt's husband.

CENTURY

Due to the enormous crowds which have all week filled the Century theater to voice approval of the Broadway theater, the management announces a second and final week for the splendid attraction.

The theme of "Orphans of the Storm" is in the emotional ordeals of Honriette and Louise Girard, the two orphans of old dramatic tradition. On the stage the story is limited in its realism to three or four obvious stage sets and a cramped action of a few square feet.

Interpreted by D. W. Griffith on the screen, all this gives way to vast spaces, fabulous vistas, herds of people in picturesque rags, colorful silks or martial uniforms, and innumerable art combinations of places and atmosphere. The vigor of the whole situation is echoed and expanded in gorgeous fashion, becoming virtually "emotion du luxe."

STRAND

"The Four Horsemen," Rex Ingram's $1,000,000 production of Ibáñez' swiftness, starting the screen favorites, Rodolph Valentino and Alice Terry, opens tomorrow night for a four-day run at the New Strand theater, Telegraph avenue at Thirty-third street, at popular prices.

"The Four Horsemen" is the supreme expression of the great war. Certainly no novel has stirred the universal appeal created by the Ibáñez masterpiece. It is the dramatic story of a man who has apparently achieved the most sensational success. He is reported to have set a new mark in artistry of picture-making.

The cast includes Rodolph Valentino, Alice Terry, Pomeroy Cannon, Joseph Sweeney, Brinsley Shaw, Alan Hale, Bridgette Clark, Mabel Van Buren, Broadway (Smok), Turner, Nigel de Bruiler, John Sainpolis, Mark Fenton, Virginia Warwick, Derek Bent, Stuart Holmes, Jean Hersholt, Henry Klaus, Edward Connelly, Georgia Woodthorpe, Kathleen Kev, Wallace Heron, Jacques d'Aray, Curt Rehfeld, Mlle. Dolores, "Dull," Montana, Isabel Keith, Jacques Tamar, Nolan Johnson, Harry Northrup, Minnieha, Arthur Hoyt and Beatrice Dominguez.

Long Battle Ends in Compromise in Which Both Sides Lose.

MARTINEZ, April 24.—That the time to settle the ownership of a cow is before that particular cow gives birth to an offspring and before the suit over its possession reaches the superior court and has run the gamut of the lower court and all of the attorney's fees attached thereto is now thoroughly fixed in the minds of J. Texeira and J. O'Hare of Walnut Creek. Several months ago Texeira brought suit against O'Hare over the ownership of a heifer. After much evidence had been presented in the court of Justice Jackson, sitting for Judge Duncan, the heifer was awarded to Texeira.

Not being satisfied with the judgment of the lower court, O'Hare took the matter to the superior court, and after the examination of about 20 witnesses on both sides an agreement was reached whereby O'Hare pays Texeira $40 for the heifer and a calf which has been born since the suit was begun.

Each side, under the agreement, will pay its own attorney fees, which will approximate $100, thus making the cow and calf cost O'Hare $140. Texeira will have to pay $60 more to his attorney than he receives for the cow and calf.

ARRESTED MAN FINDS BROTHER IN NEXT CELL

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—C. C. Bishop and his brother Angus Bishop, flung a year ago in a case in court, met through the instrumentality of the latter, the first named succeeded in escaping a jail sentence for passing a fictitious check. Today Angus Bishop found himself in the same cell, before the judge, and seeking the aid of his brother, discovered to his surprise that C. C. Bishop had occupied a nearby cell in the county jail since Saturday.

C. C. Bishop was originally arrested in connection with a money transaction and appealed to Angus, who obtained aid for him from E. E. Evans of the California Federation of Steamship and Steam Railroad Employees. Angus and Evans became friendly and the former was given employment by Evans. Recently Evans procured Angus' arrest on a charge of embezzlement and today a subpoena was issued for C. C. Bishop and it was discovered that C. C. had been arrested Saturday again for passing a fictitious check.

But of all his generation there was no stronger man than Moses, and yet Moses prayed. Certainly no greater man has ever trodden the soil of this earth than Jesus of Nazareth. If ever a man could have gotten along without prayer he was the man. And yet Jesus lived in the very atmosphere of prayer. Paul, the apostle, was hardly weakling and yet Paul's whole life was filled with prayer.

And what shall we say of the multitude who have followed since? One of the most striking pictures in the history of the world has ever been given to us at Valley Forge, during the darkest days of the Revolutionary war, as his knees in prayer. There is abundant evidence that Lincoln spent many hours in the time of supreme stress and strain, when

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—A charge of murder against William Black was dismissed by Superior Judge Michael Roche today, when it was shown that the alleged victim, Felix Lifon, hotel keeper of 175 Sixth street, had succumbed to natural causes. Black, with a confederate, on November 5 last, is alleged to have been in a room in an attempt to rob him, during which he was beaten over the head. Black was charged with murder. Evidence showed that while Lifon had a fractured skull, it was fatal because of the heart failure.

A crowd of several thousand persons gathered at the premises, Champagne, cordials, wines, whiskies, vermouth and all sorts of other liquors were confiscated. ## News of the Churches

Masons Are Honor Guests

Members of the Masonic order of the city were the guests of honor at the First Presbyterian church last night when Dr. Frank M. Ellisley spoke on "Christ's Ideal of the New Brotherhood." He said, in part:

"The common ideal of brotherhood is abbreviated and circumscribed. The average man feels that brotherly love is loving America only or white people only or westerners only. Christ's ideal of brotherly love is good will for everybody and help for everything."

The brotherhood teachings of Jesus caused the greatest revolutions of all history. His teachings have organized and seasoned personal relations between men. Brotherly love does not mean that we are to be "good old scouts" or "door-mats" for everybody, but it does mean that we shall apply the Golden Rule of justice and the square deal in relation to men. "It is not possible to love everybody with joy and complacency, but it is possible to have the attitude of helpfulness for everybody."

We can serve our neighbors by suggestions and the helping hand. It is the new brotherhood ideal of Christ that will solve the social and industrial questions. When capital and labor are willing to trust and apply the Golden Rule we shall have industrial peace.

The result of the Washington Peace Conference which banished poison gas from future warfare, limited the use of the submarine and sealed the covenant between four great powers for the peace of the world, is a triumph of Christ's ideal of the new brotherhood. The new brotherhood is not realized, but it is unquestionably inspiring the public sentiment. The peace pact was made possible by 15,000,000 Americans petitioning the President and congress to endorse the peace ideal. To fully realize the new brotherhood we must have the new order of humanity. Man must be born again by belief in the saving Christ, and creating an atmosphere for better things."

Sermon Based on Shakespeare

"Shakespeare portrayed the whole range of human emotions from the serene peace which pervades 'The Tempest,' and the joyousness of 'A Midsummer Night's Dream,' to the most terrible tragedies of life like 'Hamlet,' 'Macbeth' and 'Othello,' which leave shattered hopes and desolate souls." declared Rev. Clarence Reed, pastor of the First Baptist church yesterday during a sermon on "The Ghosts of Shakespeare."

Continuing, he said: "Shakespeare recognized the existence of evil as well as of good in human life. Why is there a base, unprincipled liar in life? Shakespeare does not solve the ethical problems of man, but he expressed them so realistically in certain characters that they seem to walk before us on the stage of life."

Shakespeare endeavored to penetrate the world of mystery. There are many references in his plays to the occult, to the use of witchcraft and fairies. He introduced them not only for stage effects, although they have great

Importance of Prayer Is Theme

Taking as his text for his morning sermon yesterday, "Moses' prayer for Israel," Rev. Edward C. Phillips, pastor of the Centennial Presbyterian church, spoke on the importance of prayer. Using as examples the cases of many of the great leaders, he said, "This problem of prayer is one of an hour of prayer is one of an hour of prayer is one of an hour of prayer."

"It is sometimes assumed that prayer is all right for children, for very old people, or for the sick who are expecting soon to die, but that it has little place in the life of a strong and self-reliant man or woman."

"But of all his generation there was no stronger man than Moses, and yet Moses prayed. Certainly no greater man has ever trodden the soil of this earth than Jesus of Nazareth. If ever a man could have gotten along without prayer he was the man. And yet Jesus lived in the very atmosphere of prayer. Paul, the apostle, was hardly weakling and yet Paul's whole life was filled with prayer."

And what shall we say of the multitude who have followed since? One of the most striking pictures in the history of the world has ever been given to us at Valley Forge, during the darkest days of the Revolutionary war, as his knees in prayer. There is abundant evidence that Lincoln spent many hours in the time of supreme stress and strain, when only God could foretell the issue of the Civil War, in humble, fervent, agonizing prayer. When the great world war was at its height, when it looked as if nothing could break the power of Germany, that the man upon whom all eyes were centered was spending time every day of his life in humble, trustful prayer? A California boy stepped into a cathedral in France and saw a man kneel in prayer. The man spoke the words of an hour of prayer. And it was only after it was all over that the boy found out who the praying man was. It was Marshall Foch.

"Was Washington a weakling? Was Lincoln childish? Was Marshall Foch unmanly to spend so much time in prayer?"

"Let us learn that real prayer is a part of the best and strongest manhood. And let us realize that the very best world situation, calling for the best wisdom and the highest character available, nevertheless calls more loudly for real and prevailing prayer than for anything else in the world."

"Another world war will ruin civilization. We must find a basis for permanent peace. But where shall it be found? It can never exist apart from the Christian spirit of brotherhood between all nations. But such a spirit will never prevail without prayer."

OPTIMISM'S STANDPOINT. "The optimist does not insist that every event in our lives is good but he declares that all events 'work together for good to them that love God.'"

"A pessimist also wears glasses—in a color, darkest blue; in size, large enough for a mile. His glasses also serve both as telescope and microscope—with one glass he sees good things afar off and with the other good in things that are near."

Theosophists Told of Islam

Mrs. Esther Talbot yesterday addressed the Oakland lodge of the Theosophical Society, speaking on "Islam." She said in part: "Islam, as at present known, is the name of the religion professed by the followers of the great Arabian prophet, Mohammed. It is now called Mohammedanism by most people. Mohammed himself called himself nor his followers called it by that name. In the Koran, his bible, it is known by the name Islam. Islam means 'True path, or resignation to the will of God.' So no honest believer in God can say that his religion is not Islam, used in its literal sense."

"Islam differs from other religions in that its teacher, the prophet Mohammed, lived his life in time regarded as historical, born in the sixth century of the Christian era, a life of heroism and simplicity, a born leader and teacher of men."

New Tariff Bill Lauded By Smoot

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(By International News Service.)—By empowering the President to change rates either upward or downward the new tariff bill will "render less frequent and less violent the commercial and industrial upheavals incident to congressional tariff revision." Senator Reed Smoot, Republican, of Utah, declared in the Senate today when debate on the measure was resumed.

The Proper Remedy at Last

Possibly inspired by the missionary work of Pussfoot Johnson, a Scotch minister undertook a temperance crusade among the members of his own flock. He announced that on a certain Sabbath he would deliver a sermon upon the evils of strong drink, with physical illustrations to prove his argument. Upon the appointed morning a congregation which crowded the kirk greeted him. The dominie lost no time in making his demonstration. Upon the pulpit he placed two glasses, one containing whisky and the other spring water. Then, in an impressive silence he brought a small box from his coat pocket, opened the box and produced a long, wriggling worm.

First, he dipped the worm in the tumbler of water, where it coiled and twisted happily. Then he dropped it into the whisky. Instantly the hapless creature shriveled, and after a few feeble contortions became limp and lifeless. Hauling forth the dead thing and holding it between two fingers in plain view of all present the minister said:

"Now, then, my brethren, behold the effects of strong spirits upon this wee creature. In the water it took no harm; but the first contact with this foul stuff here instantly destroyed it. Need I say or do more to convince you of the effects of whisky?"

From the body of the church there rose up a lantern-jawed person.

"Minister," he said, "might I ask where ye got the whisky in that tumbler?"

"I'm glad you put that question," said the clergyman. "I purchased it at that den of iniquity, the public-house, which stands at the top of the street not a hundred yards from this place of worship."

"Thank ye," said the parishioner. "I'll be goin' there on the morrow. For years I've been troubled meself with worms."

They say when a good American dies he goes to Paris. Perhaps. It may be his only chance to see some of the money they borrowed during the war. But in all probability instead of going to Paris he goes to Ad Land, to that beautiful far country we see depicted so graphically and so enchantingly in our national advertising.

He goes to the land where powerful motor cars purr noiselessly and smoothly over endless roads, perfectly surfaced. There is never a speck of dust on his car, or a spot in his faultless costume. Beautiful maidens wave to him from flowered roadsides; farmers garbed in the latest fashioned suits bring him their choicest apples and grapes; farther on he meets the country lad in the latest pattern of freckles carrying an enormous fishing pole over his shoulder and dangling from his other hand a marvelous string of innumerable fish.

He pauses beside a beach, populated entirely by girls from the Ziegfeld Follies. They have been in bathing, but their suits fit just the same. Their hair, though wet, is just as curly as every and flows in graceful curves over their attractive vertebrae. They are serving perpetual cakes and ices under eternal parasols that always cast a grateful shade, no matter where the sun happens to be at the time.

Returning home, he is met by his wife and two children, always a boy and a girl, and all three spotlessly attired and in great good humor. They kiss him affectionately, and his wife always shows solicitude as regards his business during the day. Dinner is served on time and with exquisite attention to details. The children do not climb over the table; and a baby who appears miraculously has an immaculate face and spotless bib.

If he wishes to rest, no neighbors appear. He smokes contentedly while his wife sits near by under the reading lamp and helps him plan the children's future with the aid of the correspondence school course ads. If he wishes company, none but congenial neighbors call. He retires to a refreshing slumber on springs that cannot sag, and always awakens with the sun streaming into his window, summer or winter.

There are always fresh towels in the bathroom, hot water on top, a sharp razor blade, plenty of tooth paste, lots of time, and a warm breakfast waiting, consisting of wheat cakes made by colored mamies, French toast by French chefs, and perfect coffee, blended by Sheiks from Araby.

What could be fairer than that?

Somehow, that Genoa conference reminds us of an autopsy. Why not settle it by permitting the miners to strike on Tuesdays and Fridays?

Some people think "cigaret" must end in "ic," and some think it must end in "T. B."

The chief fault of the rising generation is that it seems to be up in the air most of the time.

About the only moral atmosphere lady jurors have been able to improve is that in the jury room.

Prudery is so nearly out of fashion that almost everybody knows now that "limb" means a part of a tree.

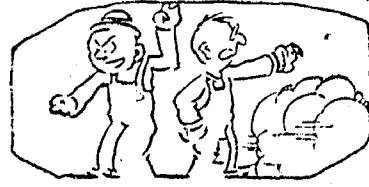

And yet we can remember a time when old-fashioned folk complained bitterly because young sports let their horses trot too fast on Main street.

Once it was marry in haste and repent at leisure, and now it's marry in haste and repeat at intervals.

When a man cranks a Ford in that jerky way, he's probably keeping time to the rhythm of explosive epithets.

Every time we gasp with dread to see Lloyd George slipping, it develops that he is merely reaching for a better hold.

Few business groups seem willing to trim their sails until they have made one more desperate effort to trim the government.

Read "Should a Woman Tell?" Great Story Starting on This Page Today

Here is a problem that almost every woman has to face at some time in her life. Torn between the desire and the fear to tell she finds herself in a hopeless position. This serial of Mrs. Bachelor's, the first installment of which appears below, takes up the question in a new way that makes the story throb with interest and suspense.

CHAPTER I.

A Shadow from the Past.

I love him, I love him!
I love him agonizingly, foolishly, completely!

I love him so much that if anything should happen to our love, life would end for me forever. I can't contemplate the world without him. I know that I didn't really begin to live until he came to me and took me in his arms and kissed me.

Janet, who is my best woman friend, and was closer than any one else in the world until he came, thinks I have suddenly gone mad. She says that I carry my heart so that the whole world may see what is in it, and she says I'm not sensible about it and that it's dangerous to love that way.

Perhaps it is, but I can't help it. For that matter I want the world to know how wonderful he is and that I am the one he has chosen to make his wife. I told Janet so, and I was so in earnest that she laughed a little uncomfortably.

"But you give a man the right to hold on to you when you love like that," she remonstrated. "Men are selfish; when they are too sure they are apt to take advantage of a woman. I don't want you to be told you foolish old darling, I'm telling you these things for your own good."

"But Dane isn't selfish," I denied vehemently. "He's the least selfish of men, and he would never take advantage of my love for him."

"Perhaps not," Janet returned. "But he's a man, Hawthorne, don't forget that."

"He loves me as much as I love him," I flamed.

"Of course he does, and I don't blame him, but don't do anything in reserve; don't spend your love too lavishly. It's old maid's advice, dear, I know, but at least I can look at the thing sanely, and with the eyes of the world."

"The eyes of the world," I scoffed. "What do I care what the world thinks?"

"And I don't care," I don't care in the least. O, Dane Merrill, I ask myself a thousand times a day how you happened to love me. I fly to the mirror to study my face from every angle, and I thank God that people have called me lovely, because it means I have that much more to give to you.

What are my assets? Dark blue eyes and black hair, and a very white skin. My mouth is serious. Dane calls it subtle.

"Oh, the subtleties of your mouth, sweetheart," he said once, and his voice shook and his arms crushed me suddenly against him. He has moments of rare passion, but for the most part he is cold. I am all flame and fire, a creature of impulse. Oh, Dane, I hope you want me that day, although I would turn myself into a very sphinx if you wanted me to be different.

There is just one thing that is troubling me, just one thing that I must make up my mind to do before I become Dane's wife. No one knows anything about it, not even Janet, and I hate more than anything in the world to rake up the past. But I don't want to keep any thing, not even the smallest kind of a secret, away from Dane. I want him to know the real Hawthorne, and because I do I shall have to tell him about Cranford Blake.

It's the one thing that clouds my joy, this having to think about the past just now when I am so happy. But I want Dane to know, and it isn't as though I had done anything I need to be ashamed of. Each day I have meant to tell him, but each day I have put it off. Is it because I am afraid? Is it because I have a feeling that Dane may not understand?

A queer little feeling of dread comes over me whenever I think of Cranford Blake. It is as though he stood between me and complete happiness, but that is foolish! I must end this suspense quickly; I must tell Dane. I'll do it tonight, and afterward we'll laugh together over the whole thing.

Tomorrow: A Lost Opportunity.

Geraldine's SHOULDER

Listen, World!

THE country is going to the dogs! Our women have cast off the last semblance of modesty. No nation can long endure the disintegration of the morals of its wives and mothers. If you doubt the alarming conditions of affairs, read this quotation from the news report of an eminent publication:

"There is no place in the United States where one hears and sees so many strange things. Madame—has made a great noise here and mobs of boys have crowded about to see what I hope will not often be seen in this country—an almost naked woman, selected partly was given to her by her appearance was such that it threw all the company into confusion, and no one dared to look at her but by stealth, the window being open a crowd assembled to look at this beautiful little creature, for everyone allows that she is extremely beautiful. Her dress was of the thinnest crepe; there was scarcely any waist and her arms were uncovered and the rest of her form visible. She was engaged the next evening at—Mrs. E. Smith and several other ladies called her word that if she wished to meet them there, she must promise to have more clothes on."

That is an authentic report of the growing of an actual character, moving in the most select circles of the United States. The woman, whose indecency is here described, was the bearer of one of the proudest names in the

"Bach" tied a large, disapproving can to all Modern Young Ladies, including Geraldine. The things that Bach condemned and the things that he approved, he asked about smoking that never thought of. I do not advocate smoking for young girls—I never have, but I do say that a girl can smoke and still be decent, wear a long skirt and still be pure. The clean way of looking at life is the progressive way, and I'm going to try to stay clean.

"Geraldine," "Some time ago there was an article in your column of a girl asking your advice about the man she was going to marry, and he wanted her to quit smoking or he didn't want her for his wife. "Well, I shouldn't think he would want her. And you told her she has the same right to smoke as he has. Pardon me, but you have some great ideas all right!"

"You can preach, but, seems to me, you must always preach the wrong way. And, believe me, if you practiced what you preach, you sure must be leading a wicked life. I think the advice you give to young girls is generally the bunk. If they listen to you, it won't be long before they will be running the men out of cigar stores and saloons, and one might call them. Yes, I know what you will say; they have the same right as men have. Well they haven't, and you or any one else that has any sense or decency at all will say so."

"I read 'Old Bachelor' in last Sunday's paper, and he sure knows what he is talking about. And you didn't have a comeback, either. Just simply told him how much you liked him, and that you would never leave him. I think you are a mighty good one for you to have in your audience. He can tell you a lot of things you don't know, but you mustn't admit it. And then, 'By Golly' (looks nice, doesn't it). You are going home and shorten your skirt another inch. A good answer, isn't it, and a good example. You say it is alright for the girls to wear their dresses so short that their garters show. Way don't you tell them to take their dresses clear off if they want to show everything they wear underneath."

"You say women that smoke, drink and swear and go to wild parties are just as decent as the ones that live a quiet simple life. In fact, the ones that say they do live quiet and stay home most of the time, you bowl them out. And you tell them how foolish they are. You and your Gang could get along with other 'Old Bachelors'. But I'm not a young and not old-fashioned. And I am married and a mother of a little girl. I'm not raising her to be a wild creature. I'll bet a cookies you'd print this. I suppose it is too long."

"A LOVER OF DECENCY."

One of the greatest difficulties in writing for the general public is this: A LOT OF FOLKS WILL READ INTO YOUR WORDS WHAT THEY WANT THERE IN.

Where Cave Artists Got Paint

STONE AGE MEN knew nothing about the alphabet, but they did some writing, just the same. "How was that?" you ask. By making pictures! The making of pictures may be thought of as the very first writing. Instead of writing "mammoth," a picture of a mammoth was drawn or painted. Instead of putting down the letters

h-o-r-s-e, a picture of a horse was drawn. If an artist wanted to tell what an animal was doing, he tried to put the action in the picture. For instance, a picture of a horse galloping was drawn on the wall of a cave in Southern France. A copy of the picture is printed. What the cave artists used for drawing? Charred sticks and crayons. The crayons were made from other. Do you know what other? It is earth. It gets its color from the mixing of iron and clay in the ground. Sometimes the color is red, sometimes it is yellow.

Much more important than the drawings were the paintings. The paint was made by mixing other as thirty thousand years old.

Pictures, Women and Skirts will be our subject tomorrow.

This is part of a series of narratives about the life of mankind that will continue throughout the year.

PSYCHO-ANALYSIS

by ANDRE TRIDON

FAIR WEATHER ENEMIES

THE fair weather friend has been the object of much scorn. But few people have mentioned the fair weather enemy. As long as we are prosperous, we are certain people pretend to like us. They accept our invitations and return them. They praise us and boast of our friendship. When our fortunes change, they simply follow the line of least effort and abandon us. They might be ashamed of our diminished estate, of our shabby dwelling, they might have to help us financially. It is so much simpler to "cut" us than to seek other friends on whom prosperity is depending. The fair weather enemy is a different human type. The fair weather friend is just a practical and superficial person. The fair weather enemy is a neurotic with a deep sense of inferiority.

He is ready to befriend any one who is in financial straits.

Uncle Wiggily Stories

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CLOCK.

"What's the matter, Nurse Jane?" "What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily one morning, as he came down stairs in the hollow stump bungalow and looked at his musical lady housekeeper.

"Why, I don't see anything the matter," replied Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I have your breakfast set on the table, and as soon as you eat the carrots and pancakes with lettuce marmalade on them, you may go out and have an adventure."

"Yes, thank you, that part is all right," said the bumpy gentleman. "But I am late. I asked you to call me early, so I could start out and look for an adventure before the Fuzzy Fox or the Wozzie Wolf began searching for me."

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "I forgot all about calling you. An alarm clock is broken, or I might have remembered."

"Then I shall get a new tinkle clock, or as you call it, a 'tinkle clock,'" spoke Uncle Wiggily. "With a new tinkle clock, ringing a bell whenever I want it, I can get up as early as I please."

"Well, get your breakfast and then go see about the clock," said the musical lady. "I'll be right back."

So Uncle Wiggily ate the carrot pancakes, helping himself to a teaspoon full of maple sugar sauce, and then he looked at the clock and through the woods to find an adventure.

"But first I had better get the new tinkle clock," said the bumpy gentleman, twinkling his pink nose. "I have such a quiet adventure that I shall fall asleep. Then the tinkle clock would wake me."

So Uncle Wiggily went to the six and seven-cent store, and he bought an alarm clock, or as he called it, a "tinkle clock." He asked the little mouse girl clerk who waited on him.

"You just wind it up by this thing in the back," she said, "and the little hand to go off whenever you want to get up, and the tinkle clock does the rest."

"Very good, thank you," said Uncle Wiggily. "Please wind it up for me."

The mouse girl did this and with the tinkle clock under her arm, Uncle Wiggily hopped along once more to have an adventure. And he was just passing the Woodland Fire House, where the Water Bugs were waiting for an alarm to come in, when all of a sudden, a bell began ringing, ding-a-ling, ding-a-ling.

"Hurry!" cried the Water Bug. "There goes an alarm! Some poor animal's house is a-burnin'! We must spray water on and put it out! Hurry, we are bugs!"

"Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!" cried Uncle Wiggily, as the Fire Department of Animal Land started

TIME TO BEGIN WORK.

Apparently the worst of the quarreling
among delegates to the Genoa economic conference is over and there is now a reasonable prospect that the gathering will be able to get down to the business of trying to achieve the purposes for which it was called. The first two weeks of the conference have been devoted to maneuvers to put certain delegations in the subordinate and embarrassing position to which other delegates thought they belonged.

Conspicuous among these skirmishes, and an episode which has come dangerously near to causing the disruption of the conference, is the banishment of the German and Russian delegates from the commission on Russian affairs. This followed the pronouncement that Germany and Russia had signed a separate treaty before coming to the conference. The delegates of both powers have accepted the discipline devised by the conference, an unusual proceeding which would not be suffered were it not for the hope of both to obtain some real advantage from continuing at Genoa.

The French delegation insists that the action of the conference in response to what it terms
the treachery of the Rappallo treaty is not severe enough. There is a demand that the Rappallo treaty be abrogated, to which the steering committee of the conference has replied by addressing a notice of having reserved the right to annul any provisions of the treaty which subsequently the conference may determine should be annulled.

Thus what one week ago seemed to threaten to send the delegates back to their several countries has been tranquilized. There is a calmer atmosphere, if not better feeling. The French and Germans and Russians are still able to sit in the same hall. Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain seemingly has been the main force in effecting compromises and keeping the conference together. But Premier Facla of Italy has been a most able assistant in this work.

Of course, the Genoa delegates realize that another week of squabbling and no progress will nearly exhaust the patience of onlooking nations. It is to be expected, therefore, that a determined effort will be made toward accomplishment of a positive character.

With Mr. Lloyd George in the dominating position where the quarrels between France on one side and Germany and Russia on the other have placed him, we may expect to see the program take a shape favorable to the objectives of the British government. And it is evident that Great Britain and Italy are being drawn notably closer together in their plans for the readjustment of Europe.

"PLANT A TREE."

During the campaign last week of education
in ways and means to save the forested areas
from devastation by fire, the Forest Service suggested a slogan which should be observed
all the time. It is "plant a tree."

"Watch the tree grow year by year," says
the forestry bureau, "and become a lover of all trees. Measure its girth and then calculate the energy nature has expended in providing the great forests that blanket the mountains of California."

Why not take up this slogan of "plant a tree" and make it mean a tremendous thing?
Suppose every citizen of California would consider it his or her civic duty to plant a tree
and watch over it with as much care as possible.
Suppose it should be the universal rule to plant
a tree for every person under twenty-one years of age and then to plant a tree for every child born henceforth.

There are plenty of spaces for tree planting.
If one does not have soil of his own, he can always get permission from some neighbor who owns land to plant a tree, and should he fail
in this he can go to the mountains and there on a fireswept slope plant as many trees as he desires.

If the people would take this suggestion in a friendly manner, not waiting for the suggestion of law or the compulsion of official authority, and start the popular fashion of tree-planting and conservation, most of the menace of destruction of forests by fires of carelessness and ignorance would pass.

In the existence of human life and of that abundance over the sheer necessities of maintaining life which has permitted the development of the human mind, there has been nothing so essential as trees—the forests which have acted as water reservoirs to keep rivers flowing and to protect the valleys from seasonal inundation, which have provided the homes of the human race.

A poet who died heroically in the late war wrote "Only God can make a tree." It is man's duty, in this day of his most intelligent understanding, to keep the trees growing and to replace those that have been destroyed.

THE MAN WHO WAS READY.

Admiral Sims, in his quietly impressive way of writing, tells an impressive story of Captain Joseph K. Tausig, United States Navy. It was Captain Tausig, it will be remembered, who took over the advance guard of the American navy after the declaration of war—the destroyer flotilla.

When he arrived at Queenstown with his ships, Vice-Admiral Sir Lewis Bayley, in command at that station, asked Captain Tausig, as the latter reported his arrival, when he would be ready to go to sea. The latter replied,
"We are ready now, sir."

Vice Admiral Bayley was aware that Tausig's flotilla had just completed the three thousand mile trip across the Atlantic and had not even refueled, so he did not take the Captain precisely at his word. He said he would give the American fleet four days from the time of its arrival and asked if that would be sufficient. "Yes," said Captain Tausig,
"that will be more than ample."

That was one of the creditable incidents of the war, Tausig's reply to Bayley, "We are ready now, sir." But we notice that Captain Tausig has just been assigned to the command of the third class cruiser, Cleveland. The Cleveland, formerly the Ohio, is a good ship,
but she was built in 1903 and in another year will be twenty years old, about the age when naval experts say a ship becomes obsolete. Is she the best command available for Tausig?

THE RAISIN.

This is Raisin Week in California, and on next Thursday "Raisin Day" will be celebrated, with a monster parade and other festivities in Fresno, the heart of the raisin growing district.
Once again we thus emphasize the importance of a California industry which has added greatly to the wealth of the state and to the prosperity of its citizens.

Raisin production has done much to attract the attention of all the other states to California. Although the sales of raisins amount to many millions of dollars annually, this delectable product is just being introduced to the world's markets. The power of consumption in this country has hardly been touched.
The greatest years of the industry are ahead.

In the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys
new acreage is being added to raisin production every year. The prospect is that the raisin will soon bring each year a larger return to California than all the gold mines have yielded since the discovery of gold.

AND MEN ALSO.

Mrs. Oliver Harriman is rather hard on the members of her sex. She says millions of women—not all womankind—are a failure, that they do not build but wreck. She says that millions of women fail as home-makers,
and that when a woman fails as a home-maker
after having acquired a home, she has about plumbed the depth of failure.

Unquestionably Mrs. Harriman is right.
There are millions of failures, millions who are wreckers instead of builders. But then, Mrs. Harriman is discussing women at this particular time. Suppose she should discuss men. Unquestionably, also, she would observe that millions of men are failures, are wreckers
instead of builders.

There is not much difference between men and women in this respect. It is impossible definitely to fix the responsibility for all the failures, to attach all the responsibility to one side or the other. This is a world of men and women. The partnership of the sexes is as old as creation; it has never been broken. The state of the world today is the result of this partnership.

If one dwells upon the situation with adequate knowledge and seriousness, he is sobered against trying to place more of the blame, or the credit, on one group than on the other.

Mary Garden, grand opera star, says that Lucien Muratore, also grand opera star, is a "sloppy enemy," by which she means he is not a worthy enemy. If Miss Garden is so particular about the quality of her enemies she ought to exercise more discernment in the selection of members of the opera company of which she was until lately director.

"Chauncey Depew an optimist on his eighty-eighth birthday." Well, why shouldn't he be—at that age?

DAILY ALMANAC

Monday, April 24.

This is Mardi Gras Week....
Orville has opened a new bridge
and has new highway connections
... The Boston News Letter, the first permanent newspaper in the world, was started in 1704....
John Trumbull, the man who wrote
"McFingal," was born in 1750....
China issued an edict permitting foreigners to teach the Christian religion in 1845.... They have been preaching since.... Farragut passed the forts below New Orleans in 1862.

Colonel Repington, the man who has fought more battles with pen
and ink than any other warrior,
has admitted that he never heard of Mary Roberts Reinhardt. All that remains now, to establish the fine balance between American and English letters, is for Mrs. Reinhardt to let it be known she never heard of the colonel.

Every time we read of Princess Mary's cutting her wedding cake
with a sword, we know the thing
will echo in the homes of the land.
And yet could there be more conferences designed to beat the swords into cake-knives, the world might wag on more smoothly toward sanity and indigestion.

Why Doc Quit the Paper.

(Benton, Ill. News.)
He was shot in the pit of the stomach at 5 o'clock Sunday night
by Ave Lee. Drs. Austin and Vice operated upon him, and, strange as it might seem, it is said he has a chance of recovery.

One might think a trade extension trip into the San Joaquin Valley was a thing of dollars and cents, of barter and boost, but this Oakland one was more than that.
At Visalia, for instance, the excusionists discovered a youth who sang so beautifully as to leave them all amazed. Men who know voices and music said that never had they heard so promising a voice and as a result, Joe Joseph's career is to be watched from here with more than impersonal interest.

At Bakersfield the oil wells were seen and many old delusions shattered. We always pictured an oil field as a place of splinter and grind. We visualized men running about in a forest of derricks, saw smoke clouds rising and heard the whirr of machinery. There is nothing more busy than the oil fields of our imagination.

What we did see was the forest
of derricks on a brown velvet plain. As far as we could see they rose in lonely state. There were no men about, and until we were close at hand there was no sign of motion. Then, what a motion!

Nodding with deliberation, bowing grotesquely and formally, bobbing and wig-wagging the great beams of the pumps work up and down. It all seems so incidental, so leisurely that one cannot connect this motion with the production of vast wealth. In the fields are derricks of a thousand designs. The pump-beams, or whatever they call them, are hung on semi-circular wire carriers, are hinged as large triangles, and they nod with the jerking of a cable.
Who jerks the cable to set these things in motion? They are like the heads of Chinese dolls, they bow and they bow, and it takes an expert to know what it is all about.

There are few more beautiful places in the world than the valley near these oil wells. It is a deep, quiet valley before the snow-topped mountains, and one which holds in its lap a sleeping mesa.
There is a shifting and velvet tone
to the hillsides, and lavenders, blues, browns and yellows mass and separate. They say it is never twice the same.

Another view which will interest
the tourist in the San Joaquin is that at Dinuba. Many an Oakland man has driven through this city and beyond without having climbed Haden Hill. There is an automobile road up the slope, and on the top one looks down on thousands of acres of perfectly kept orchards.
The mountainous artist could not paint a chamber of commerce picture which would speak so glowingly of a country's prosperity and promise. These two views and Joe Josephs, they have nothing to do with trade extension, but a hundred Oakland trade excursionists will never forget them.

Another indication of the passing of the Old West is that whenever one tries to get the word
"radio" in the paper, it is set up
"Radio."

"A Wise Wood Joins Prohibition-ists." Maybe he is. A wise wood alcohol judge.

If Governor Stephens will declare a "Contributors' Week" and the word is spread a lot of hard-working column fillers will experience brief respite.

The warmer days are coming.
When no more frost is felt;
When little Pollyanna
Will let her trouble melt.

emphatic in his belief that the government will stop the use of all radio instruments.

"It is the radio waves," said the gentleman on the elevator, "that have brought the frosts, the cold winds and the late summer. Mark my words, the government will take action!"

The club will meet at 7 p. m. for discussion of the discovery.

NOTES and COMMENT

If General Pershing submits to the efforts that are being made to elect him to the Senate, it will very probably result in replacing a bizarre politician by an undoubted patriot in the Upper House of Congress. Missouri has been abundantly shown that such replacement is desirable. She has had more than sufficient occasion to glean such knowledge of her own account.

From what is disclosed as to the Russia-German pact, it must be concluded that the conquered nation is already at work scheming
to get even with her conquerors.
Heartily supported by both, would be a menace to world peace that the leading nations could not help but regard as serious. That it may be nipped in the bud is what must be hoped for.

Salt Lake Tribune holds that the cost of living is still too high: "A further reduction in the cost of living for families of wage earners can hope to get back to normalcy.
While it is true that a considerable decrease has been achieved from the peak prices of 1920, yet the cost of the necessities of life as compared with 1914 are still too high. The survey of changes in the cost of living in the United States made by the National Industrial Conference indicates that in the middle of last month the cost of living among wage earners families for the country as a whole was 54.7 per cent higher than in July, 1914."

The Tribune tells of the municipal slaughter in Chicago: "Justice Olson of the municipal court has ordered the opening of an additional branch of the automobile court to handle cases brought under the park ordinances and for nonpayment of licenses. Judge Olson says that one court is wholly insufficient. It is clogged with cases. He recites that 540 people were killed in Chicago in 1920 by motor vehicles, and that 220 were killed, and 243 were children.
This, says the judge, cannot go on."

Kansas City Times on Bolsheviki-ism: "A despatch from Genoa states that Russian Communism is making what may be its final fight.

It will come day, if not now. Russian Communism was doomed from the start. The only uncertain point concerning this fact is when the leaders of the movement will admit
it. The Greenback, the Populist, the Nonpartisan League and other similar movements have come, and as all flesh, have gone. Each such movement contributes something valuable to the sum total of human knowledge. At short range the important contribution of the Red movement in Russia has been that of the horrible example."

The Kansas City Star points out the difference: "A Chicago spiritualist says the people in the next world all wear snappy clothes, and Sir Oliver Lodge says there is marriage between spiritualities. The next world must be very different. Down here, the man who devotes too much to his affinity sooner or later is reduced to very plain clothes."

Profanity is on the decrease, to the surprise of the Brooklyn Eagle:
"Profanity is not growing, it is declining in the United States.
Which fact is even more impressive
when it is usually noted that this country has 64 per cent of all the world's telephones."

The Medford Mail-Tribune indulges in original music terms:
"The hifalutin singing season is over in local vocal circles, giving the mement gruntings and the talented squealissimo a rest. The general public does not comprehend
the technique of a Yellergo furiso number in F Major. They like their tempo in G 2nd loot (Opus 555), moderato."

The Secretary of State takes official account of a canard: "Secretary Hughes of the Department of State has felt it desirable to issue a denial of a widely circulated report to the effect that to spare
the feelings of non-Christian nations the prayer with which the Washington conference opened was censored and the name of Christ deliberately omitted. Mr. Hughes says there was no censorship. His word should end a report which has shown astonishing vitality in spite of its improbability."

SPIRIT OF STATE PRESS

Due, it is believed, to heavy drinking, Andrew Anderson, a Fort Bragg man, tried a frightful method of self-destruction when he placed his neck across the railroad track in front of the Fort Bragg passenger train as it was starting up at Clair Mill. All that prevented a decapitation was the quick eye of Fred Goranson, engineer, who applied
the emergency brake. — Ukiah

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE FAIRY AND THE ROBIN.
(Written especially for a little friend.)

A fairy and a robin met
Beside a bed of mignonette.
The robin bowed and raised his hat,
And smiled a smile as wide as—
that—

Then said: "Miss Fairy, I declare,
I'd kiss you, only I don't dare."

The fairy curtsied low and said:
"Your breast is such a lovely red,
And you are such a handsome thing,
And, oh, such pretty songs you
sing—
I'd gladly kiss you now, but I
May only kiss a butterfly."

The robin spoke a silly word:
"I'm sorry I was born a bird!
Were I a fairy-man instead,
Then you and I might some day
wed."

The fairy laughed and said: "My
dear,
God had to have some robins here.

"Be glad you're what you are and
sing
And cheer the people in the Spring.
I may with children as I'm told,
But you bring joy to young and old,
And it seems always strange to me
I'm one the old folks never see."

The robin spoke: "Perhaps it's best,
I'll sing my songs and show my breast
And be a robin, and you stay
And share in all the children's play.
God needs us both, so let us try
To do our duty—you and I."

How do I know they said these things?
I saw the robin spread his wings,
I saw the fairy standing up
Upon a golden buttercup,
I hid myself behind a wall
And listened close and heard it all.

When One Claim Adjuster Fainted.
Out in Wyoming a train ran over the cow of a Swede farmer named Ole Olson. The claim adjuster went out to the house of Ole to adjust the claim likely to be made by Ole for the loss of the cow.

"Well, Mr. Olson," said the claim adjuster, "I came out to see you about your cow being killed on our track. What are you expecting to do about it?"
"Vell," said Ole stolidly, "I ban

"He's the Good Man," she an-

"The Good Man? What makes

Then, in answer, the little girl still in awed tones, quoted the

about YOUR HEALTH

What Vaccination Means
In Battle Against Smallpox.By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

Recently in reading about the French revolution, I was struck by a statement that most of the actors in that great drama were pockmarked. Mirabeau, Desmoulins, Danton, Marat, Robespierre and several others bore the terrible scars of smallpox.

The author of the book in which I read this fact was so impressed by the frequency of this disfigurement among the revolutionists that he was led to ask the absurd question:

"Did an attack of smallpox produce certain moral results which found expression in this way?"

The men mentioned were so prominent and so much written about in their own time that we have very accurate ideas of their personal appearances and qualifications. It was no coincidence that they were pock-marked, nor were they conspicuous on this account.
The truth is, smallpox was almost as common then as scarlet fever is today. It was confined by no means to the leaders of the revolution.
Most of the population carried the scars of this loathsome disease.

How different is the situation today! You rarely see a pock-marked face. Almost invariably a person scarred this way had the smallpox
in one foreign country.

No fact in medicine is better established than the value of vaccination. It insures safety, far as life is concerned, and is almost certain as a means of protection against the disease.

The unfortunate thing is that a good many persons neglect a manifest duty. I was greatly surprised last year to find that thousands upon thousands of adults in New York City had never been vaccinated. It is an act which no one should overlook.

In New York there is almost always a case under treatment. Sometimes there may be two or three at a time. The history of these attacks is invariably the same sort of a story.

The first patient comes from outside the city. His condition is not recognized at first. Finally he lands in the pesthouse. A few days later another case of smallpox is reported from the same address.
Almost without exception the report of the second case adds—"No history of vaccination."

Why take a chance of being pock-marked or killed by a disease which is preventable? It is bad enough to have to face so many diseases which cannot be avoided.
Smallpox can be guarded against,
and you are not fair to yourself or to society if you neglect this simple precaution.

Without the universal practice of vaccination any national gathering
today would be made up of pockmarked statesmen just as the national assembly was in France before the Revolution. We have progressed since that day.

RADIOPHANS TO HEAR CONCERT AT SCHOOL TONIGHT

Tribune's Portable Broadcasting Set To Be Used At Free Entertainment.

The TRIBUNE will give a demonstration of radiophone receiving at the Prescott school auditorium this evening, beginning at 7:15 and lasting until 9 o'clock. The demonstration will begin with the TRIBUNE's evening news broadcast from the Hotel Oakland station and will end with the concert to be broadcast by the Fairmont hotel in San Francisco.

R. D. Lowell, builder of the TRIBUNE's portable radio receiving set, which will be used tonight, will be in charge of the demonstration. Several weeks ago a demonstration at the Prescott school was attempted, but was a failure due to the inefficient aerial and lead-in which were used. The TRIBUNE was called upon to put on a demonstration, and the request was immediately granted. Lowell, who has a reputation of building sets that excel in workmanship, and which have out-distanced many others of similar construction was secured by the TRIBUNE to attempt the demonstration this evening. He has constructed a special aerial for the occasion and promises that tonight's demonstration will be a success.

Free tickets have been issued to students of the school and to their parents to attend the affair. It will be Radio Night at the school.

Oakland Student One Of Mission Play Stars

UNIVERSITY OF SANTA CLARA, April 24.—Earl James Twomey of Oakland and a student at the University of Santa Clara is to take part in the forthcoming production of the "Mission Play of Santa Clara" during the Mission Santa Clara Centenary celebration.

The performances to take place in the old Mission Theater, Santa Clara, on the evenings of May 2, 3, 4, 6 and 7. Young Twomey plays the role of a caballero in the dramatic classic, and is said to do justice to the romantic type of the young Spanish-American who were prominent in California's early history.

The pageant-play portrays in realistic fashion the stirring history of the early Mission Santa Clara during the days of the American invasion in 1846, and the glory of old Spanish California. The scenic and lighting effects are remarkable, having been especially created for the elaborate productions by the College of Engineering of the University of Santa Clara.

"The Mission Play of Santa Clara" presentations will be the feature of the Mission Santa Clara Centenary celebration to take place here May 1 to 7 inclusive. The Centennial will also commemorate the 100th birthday of the town and county of Santa Clara, and is to be publicly observed by the various civic bodies and commercial organizations of the entire Santa Clara valley.

WANTED! HOST OF LINGUISTS IN ARGENTINE

BUENOS AIRES, April 24.—Chilean troopers who have acquired two or three languages in their wanderings and who would like to settle down to steady jobs will be heartily welcomed by the chief of police of Buenos Aires. This city has become so cosmopolitan that the police force decided to muster in a large number of linguists as patrolmen, but discovered there were not sufficient men here to complete the personnel. Deciding to invite foreigners to apply for the jobs, the authorities have specified that applicants must speak two foreign languages and be willing to become citizens of Argentina.

As part of his uniform, each member of the linguistic squad wears on his sleeve a flag of the country whose language he speaks, with corresponding inscriptions such as "Je parle francais," "Ich sprech Deutsch," "Io parlo italiano," and "I speak English." Some of the men wear as many as seven plaques.

Attempt to Smuggle in Italians Fails

SEATTLE, Wash., April 24.—Immigration officers here stated last night that they had frustrated an attempt to smuggle four Italians across the Canadian boundary near Blaine by the arrest of J. D. April 34, Italian merchant, who is alleged to have aided four of his countrymen in a violation of the immigration laws of the United States. April and a man named La Pore were arrested.

REDWOOD PEAK PURCHASE URGED UPON OAKLAND

The immediate purchase by the city of Oakland of Redwood Peak and its groves of stately forest giants, is urged in a resolution adopted by the California Chapter of the Society of American Foresters, which met yesterday on Redwood Peak.

The meeting was presided over by Swift Berry. Others present included: Duncan Dunning, secretary; Charles E. Warner, representative of the Contra Costa Hills club; Walter Mumford, professor of forestry, University of California; E. Fritz, assistant professor; Woodbridge Metcalf, associate professor; Francis X. Schumacher; R. F. Hammatt, secretary-manager of the California Redwoods Association; C. Stowell Smith, secretary-manager of the White and Sugar Pine Manufacturers' Association; Dr. E. P. Meinecke of the United States Bureau of Forestry; E. N. Munns of the State Forester's Department; Willie Wagner of the U. S. Bureau of Forestry; Carey Leroy Hill of the U. S. Forest Service; and Carl A. Kuper.

The various speakers placed stress on the importance of maintaining the Redwood Peak, a "natural laboratory of forestry" of this nature, close to the university, was of incalculable value. Charles E. Warner emphasized the value of the redwoods to the city of Oakland as a park and playground, and as an unsurpassed attraction for tourists.

The meeting also drafted an ordinance, to be presented to city officials, which provides for fire prevention measures among the Redwoods, in conjunction with the State Fire Warden.

RADIO APPARATUS CAN BE ATTACHED TO LIGHT SOCKET

Cumbersome Battery Will be Cast Into Discard by Invention.

BY UNITED PRESS
WASHINGTON, April 24.—The radio phone today took its place in the list of household conveniences along with the electric iron and the vacuum cleaner.

A new invention of the bureau of standards at the department of commerce permits radio fans to attach their apparatus to an electric light socket and eliminate the cumbersome and not always convenient battery.

The experts say, will enable wireless phone fans to operate their machines with the ease and comfort of any other electrically attached device.

Every cabinet member now has a radio phone at his desk or home or in both.

The new receiving device of the standards bureau may be used with any type of antenna, elevated wire, coil or special form. By special special modes of connection, it is possible to use the electric light wires themselves as antenna, but the signals are likely to come in with less strength when this is done.

A paper describing the possibilities in the new appliance is being prepared by the standards bureau for distribution.

Old "Dynamite" Ship Vesuvius Sold for Junk

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The old navy "dynamite" cruiser Vesuvius, in Spanish war days hailed as the possible pioneer craft of a new naval era, has been sold as junk to J. Lipsitz, of Chelsea, Mass., for $4280.

Like many other novel craft which were expected to sweep all battleships from the seas as obsolete, the Vesuvius, the "dynamite ship" failed utterly and was discarded.

In 1895 when the American fleet was concentrated before Santiago de Cuba to bottle up the battle craft of Spain, the Vesuvius steamed down to join the grim ring of steel.

Wild conjectures filled the newspapers as to the terrible damage such an engine of war would do to the ships of Spain and the forts that guarded the harbor. The nation waited breathlessly for the test.

As a trial, she was finally ordered in to hurl death and destruction into the walls of Morro Castle, on the high bluffs. When, as was expected, no necessary cause of the low power of the air guns, the Vesuvius finally "let go," a terrible roar came back from the bluff. It shook the earth and sent with sound the city scurrying in fear to caves and cellars. But it proved to be only sound.

When Santiago fell and examination was possible it was found that no damage had been done to the old, tottering forts and ancient bronze guns.

The Vesuvius remained with the fleet through the war doing duty as an anti-aircraft boat. But immediately after the war, in September, 1918, she was decommissioned, never again to be rated as a fighting ship.

Lipsitz will command the vessel during its destruction.

WEARY WAITING POLICY ADOPTED BY McCORMICK

PARIS, April 24.—Despite the friendship which has sprung up between Allice McCormick and the young Count de Janz, McCormick is "cooling his heels" in Paris while his fiancée, Mary Landon Baker, who has twice left him "waiting at the altar," visits the count's wife, formerly Miss Alice Silverthorne of Chicago.

McCormick telephones daily to the de Janz town house without eliciting an invitation to spend his idle moments with his fiancée in Normandy.

Attempts to confirm intimations attributed to intimates of Miss Baker that she is patiently waiting for the world's interest in her much postponed marriage to die down to enable her to break her engagement quietly, were unsuccessful today.

Countess de Janz today, however, went to London near her Elgie estate, without taking McCormick with her. It is reported here that Miss Baker's mother is responsible for the "separatist" tactics.

DOG GUARDS BABE, FIGHTS TWO POLICEMEN

CHICAGO, April 24.—A bull dog guarded an 18-month-old baby so faithfully that it took two policemen to overpower the animal so that the child could be cared for.

The cries of a child attracted the attention of the patrolmen, where they found the dog guarding the infant.

Later in the day the mother appeared to claim the child and said she had left it with the dog for a guard. She expressed anger that the patrolmen had disturbed the two.

LESSON NO. 36.
The Thermionic Tube
Part 3—The Grid.

The most revolutionary inventions in radio in the last few years have been for their foundation the complete thermionic tube of three elements. When the third element, the grid, was first introduced by Dr. Lee DeForest, he laid the cornerstone for radio development, and it is doubtful whether broadcasting by radio telephone would today be a public service were it not for the three electrode thermionic tube.

The "grid," as it is called, is a mesh or screen, interposed between the filament and plate, and because of this strategic position, it can with a very small amount of energy control the electrons emitted from the filament and determine in what quantities they shall reach the plate.

It will be remembered that with a filament properly lighted and a positive potential on the plate, a current will flow in the plate circuit from the plate to the filament, and then externally to the plate. In figure one is shown by means of heavy arrows the direction of plate current, the dotted arrows showing the direction of emission and travel of electrons.

reaching the plate. A positive charge on the grid would increase the quantity of electrons leaving the filament for the plate. Figure two shows the grid negatively charged and no plate current because the electrons are prevented from reaching the plate by the negative charge on the grid. Figure three shows a positive charge on the grid, allowing the electrons to reach the plate and a consequent flow of current in the plate circuit.

For sake of illustration the potential on the grid is indicated as being furnished by a battery rather than the usual receiving inductance.

The energy in the plate circuit depends on the amount of filament emission and the voltage or potential of the plate. The control of the grid over this energy depends on its closeness to the filament, its charge, and its construction. By reason of the small amounts of energy on the grid which can be made to control great amounts of energy in the plate circuit, the thermionic tube possesses amplifying properties which are of great importance in radio telegraphy and telephony.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Radio Editor TRIBUNE: Can a radio receiving set be bought from some one in Oakland for about $30 or $40?

M. E. R.
Yes, a vacuum tube detector set can be purchased for about $10 complete. Advise you to have a look at The TRIBUNE's auction set on sale at the Western Radio Electric Company store, corner Twelfth and Franklin streets.

Radio Editor TRIBUNE: (1) At what times are amateurs allowed to send?

2. I live next door to a telephone and telegraph office and when I am tuned up I hear a series of dashes which continue day and night. I can hardly hear the music when The TRIBUNE is sending. How can I do away with this noise?

3. What broadcasting stations should I get? My set consists of a loose coupler, crystal detector and condenser and one Murdock 55, 1000 ohm phone.

4. What time does Los Altos send?

EDWIN DIERKE.
1125 Eighty-sixth avenue, Oakland.
1. Amateurs are allowed to send any time, except between 7:30 p. m. and 9 p. m. at night.

2. Not knowing the exact nature of the disturbance you can hardly advise as to its elimination. Sometimes a variable condenser across the secondary assists in tuning out interfering noises.

3. You should be able to hear the Los Altos station.

4. Between 4 and 5 p. m. daily.

By studying figures two and three it can be seen that because of the closeness of the grid to the filament, a small negative charge placed on the grid would repel the electrons and tend to prevent their

WASHING but Not to IRONING!

Because there are parts of Laundry work that are heavy and parts that are not, four different forms of Laundry Service are offered.

These various forms make it possible for the housewife to send the heavy and objectionable part of her washing and ironing to the Laundry and yet economize by doing that part of the work which she does not mind at home.

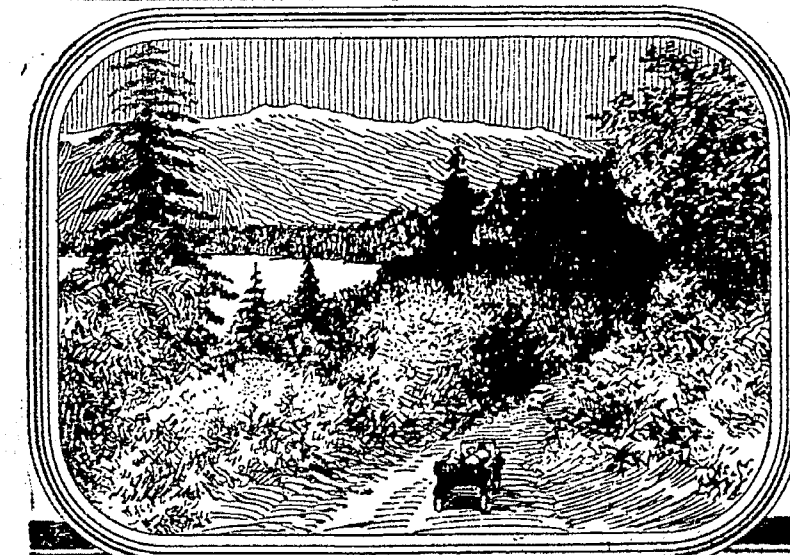

In one of the services the housewife will find "The Happy Medium"—a service that will give her all of the convenience of the Laundry and yet enable her to make a substantial saving by doing part of the work herself.

Many women are adding hours of leisure to their lives by taking advantage of the Dry Wash Service which takes care of the washing, drying and ironing of all of the wearing apparel and flat pieces, leaving only the fine pieces of the wardrobe and linen chest to be ironed at home.

For an eleven-pound wash, which is the average for a family of three, this service costs but ninety cents.

There is no obligation in phoning any of the laundries in this ad for further particulars.
